Classroom Management

Tip of the Week

Planning for the End

During the final weeks of school, make a list of your classroom management challenges and misbehaviors. Identify those that are currently problematic- and also any challenges that you anticipate as the year comes to a close.

Next year, plan to emphasize these expectations at the beginning of the year. Developing a list now will help you design your classroom management plan for the 2019-2020 school year.

With that said, it isn't too late to teach new expectations that emphasize replacement behaviors, or the positive opposite of any problem behavior. Reinforcing replacement behaviors is the only way to increase the positive behaviors in your classroom moving forward.

Finally, as excitement increases, consider how maintaining a STOIC approach will support your positive environment. "Remain calm and respond right" to prevent and/or diffuse any escalating situations.
